The determination of catecholamines (norepinephrine, dopamine) and their related compounds (metanephrine, 3,4-dihydroxyphenylalanine) was investigated using an off-line (fixed-bed) capillary electrophoresis (CE) with electrochemical detection (ECD), a macro-luminescence detector, in conjunction with online (free-moving) CE with electrochemical detection (pCEC) using a coaxial capillary system. The influence of the inner electrolyte (pCEC) and the electrode system on the detection limits was investigated. It was found that a 2.0 mM borate buffer with 0.1 mM, 1.0 mM and 2.0 mM sodium hexanesulfonate as inner electrolyte and 2.0 mM ascorbic acid as a reducer of dopamine at a cathodic potential of +0.5 V were the best conditions. The results were compared to a CE and a CE-ECD without online analysis.[Eradication of high dose multidrug-resistant Pseudomonas aeruginosa in a neonatal intensive care unit. Case report].
