You are now walking towards the aquarium, where waterbirds are waiting for you! After you set it as your screensaver, you can enjoy the (16 x 16 pixels) underwater background image without turning off your monitor, but also feel free to turn off the sound effects and music whenever you want. TIP! Look for terms and conditions when making the purchase of any programs and software. It is usually tucked away somewhere in the website you are buying from. And even though they have the same look and feel, these two software programs are vastly different to use. However, in the case of the Floating Screen Screensaver, it comes with an operating system that can be used on both macOS and Windows. After you launch it, you are given a grid-like menu that makes it easier for you to access its features and settings. For example, this query: SELECT COUNT(*) FROM `books` WHERE `date` >= '2009-10-01' Gives me the total number of rows for that day. I was able to get most of the way there but I only wanted the counts for that hour. So for example, it could be 12-45 for the book count. Then, I could do something like: SELECT COUNT(*) FROM `books` WHERE `date` >= '2009-10-01' and hour='12-45' Is there a way to do this in a single query? A: One way is to use conditional aggregation: select min(date), max(date), count(*) from ( 09e8f5149f
